

JNAMUN'25 CONFERENCE

CODE OF CONDUCT

Application Processes

- The Public Relations Department and the Secretariat of JNAMUN 2025 are responsible for the acceptance, rejection, and allocation of participants.

Dress Code

- All participants are expected to be in formal business attire during all sessions and ceremonies. Gentlemen need to be in suits i.e., male delegates are expected to attend the conference wearing either ties or bow ties, and gentlewomen in business suits or dresses. Please keep in mind that delegates who are not dressed appropriately will not be allowed in the sessions.

Note Passing

- The Administrative Staff is responsible for note passing during the sessions. Note passing between sessions is not permitted. Notes should always be written in formal English, concerning matters relating to committee work. Private messages will not be sent.
- Please be reminded that the Administrative Staff and Committee Directors are entitled to scan your notes.

Opening Speeches

- All delegates are required to deliver an opening speech in the first session of the conference.

Punctuality and Attendance

- All delegates are required to arrive on time for each session, which is five minutes before each session starts. Constant tardiness and missing more than three sessions will result in revoking of your Certificate of Participation and any awards you would have received.

Social Events

- All delegates must strive to keep a polite, respectful, and professional tone in all their communications and interactions with other delegates, chairs, staff, and advisors. The delegates who harass or discomfort other delegates by any means during the social events will be given a warning.
- Noncompliance with the aforementioned rules may result in official warnings or the expulsion of a delegate.

Application Information

- All the information given by the applicant (individual delegate, advisor or head delegate) must be given and approved by the applicant and must be accurate. The confirmation for this article is important due to the fact that JNAMUN'25 will be sending delegates certificates via email.

Note to Advisors

- It is advised for advisors to make sure they have written all of the required information about the delegates along with their MUN/JMUN experiences down at the MUN experience part on our website (<https://jnamun.org/>).
